Law Enforcement Tactical Tracking Operations

This class is designed to introduce law enforcement officers, border security officers, military and search and rescue personnel to a highly effective skill set. A trained tracker has the ability to successfully track a person in rural and urban environments. An important component of locating and utilizing shoeprint impressions as evidence is placing a person at a crime scene or a specific location

Successful completion of this course also prepares a student for operations including;

- Fugitive tracking operations
- Border security
- Tactical tracking operations
- Tracking drug smugglers
- Missing persons
- Poaching operations
- Marijuana grow detection operations
- Utilizing track as evidence
- Search and rescue missions

Law Enforcement Tactical Tracking Operations

The course includes approximately 40 hours of classroom and field exercises (mostly field exercises). Students will participate in team building and some individual field exercises. Field exercises will involve labs, scenarios, practical exercises. Core testing of each of these components plays an integral role in the students training development. The student who successfully completes the training will be proficient in:

- Basic tracking principals
- Interpreting sign and shoeprint impressions
- Case development through crime scene and evidence analysis
- Crime scene tools and tricks of the trade
- Micro and macro tracking
- Lost track procedures
- Leadership and team operating skills
- Camouflage and concealment principles
- Basic map reading and GPS uses
- Night tracking
- Communications and incident command from a tactical track or search and rescue operation
- Use of shoeprint impressions to develop probable cause
- Development of Ad Hock or Hasty team

This course is being hosted by Colorado Parks and Wildlife on August 10th-14th, 2015.

Class will be held at 2500 S. Main, Lamar, CO
