Officer Down / MCT & “Force Protection”

Officer Down / MCT & “Force Protection” This course provides the latest medical training used by the military and law enforcement to treat major bleeding, trauma, and shock in a hostile environment. Attendees will learn many different methods of gaining control of a traumatic injury. They will also learn to properly evacuate the casualty to a safe location for further treatment or to identify other life threatening emergencies. This course will culminate by law enforcement working together inside the “warm zone” safely rendering care for those with life threatening injuries.

Law enforcement and EMS continues to become more dangerous everyday across the United States, both LE and EMS need advanced training to have the skills to make a difference. This course will challenge you mentally, physically and will give you knowledge needed to self-aid and care for others. This course will have customized practical exercises for both law enforcement and EMS prior to joint exercises to ensure both groups learn the needed skills to work together in a dangerous environment with mass casualties.

Course Objectives:

- Understand trauma care in a hostile environment
- Recognize and treat massive bleeding
- Gunshot wound care
- Proper tourniquet application
- Triageing
- Communicating and working together safe and effectively within the “warm zone”
